"THE SOLID SOUTH GONE."

SO CALICO CHARLEY THINKS.

Re is Calculating Upon Southern Demoorats Cutting Each Other's Throats. Harrison and Quay.

Washington, August 23, -[Special.]-Secretary Foster, of the Treasury Department, has again interviewed himself and given the results to the newspapers. Mr. Foster is in anything but a happy frame of mind as to politics. He is anxious to persuade the President that he (Foster) is after all a "bigger man" than Mr. Harrison now regards him. The plain truth is that Mr. Harrison has wearied of Charles Foster. The latter was taken into the Cabinet with the distinct understanding that he would "keep Ohio straight." that is, straight for Harrison for renomination. Instead of being of any benefit in that line Foster proved an actual source of weakness. At Minneapolis the Ohio delegation persistently refused to support Harrison. The delegation, seeing no chance to nominate It was for anybody to beat Harrison. The dalegation, seeing no chance to nominate Flaine, went almost solidly to McKinley, it was the Ohio delegation's course at Minneapolis which caused the President so much anxiety and trepidation, and he has not forgiven Charles Foster for his sufferings on that occasion.

Secretary Foster starts out by saying "of course" Mr. Harrison will carry Ohio. Then he declares that the great issue of the campaign is the tariff and denies that the Treasury is bankrupt. "We are meeting our obligations," he says. Great achievement: With taxes piled upon the people as they are Secretary Foster proudly proclaims that the Government has so far escaped repudiation. But Mr. Foster talks most gibly about the South. He expresses the opinion that Harrison will carry "all the Northern States" and two or three of those in the South.

and two or three of those in the South.

"The Democrats," chirps this finance minister. "are splitting up in the South by reason of their own methods." He says any attempt from the outside to reform these methods is termed "force." and the Democrats hold together to resist it. "But," he adds, "if they are left to fight among themselves, if we do not resist them, they will suffer by their own frauds. As a matter of policy I never favored any. then, they will suffer by their own frauds. As a matter of policy I never favored anything like force, I voted against the bill when I was in Congress. Mahone was right about his plan in Virginia, though I did not realize it at the time. He opposed any Republican candidate for Congress being put in the field, and proposed to let the Democrats fight it out among themselves. Under such conditions independent candidates are bound to come out." Mr. Foster points to the recent Alabama election, and says the solid South "is gone." He adds: "The Force bill issue is without life." President Harrison, who in the last Congress avowed that Republican senators and representatives who refused to support the Force bill need not apply to him for any official favore, may resent this rejection of the Force bill by a member of his Cabinet. member of his Cabinet.

HABRISON AND QUAY.

If President Harrison has sent any inti-If President Harrison has sent any inti-mation of good will and purpose to ex-Sen-ator Platt he did not include Senator Quay. The latter has been conducting an ener-getic canvass for a year to secure his re-election to the Senate. He has managed so well that his success seems assured, unless the administration shall prove potent enough to down him. Senator Quay is feeling very sore heavier. Senator Quay is feeling very sore because of the continued efforts of the President and his Cabinet to prevent Quay's return to the Senate. To a confidential friend Quay confessed that he had not changed his mind as to Harrison; that he liked him as little as ever, but as the regular nominee of his party he had determined to labor for his election. But Quay added that notwithstanding he had caused notification of his purpose to loyally support the Republican ticket to be con-veyed to the President the latter continues oppose the Senator and his plans thr the mechinations of Federal officials in Pennsylvania. Quay visited Republican national headquarters recently and protested to Chairman Carter against the fight being kept up against him. Carter pro-mised that it should cease. He assumed to have influence enough with the President and his advisers to stop it, but according to Quay he has not succeeded. Carter communicated with the President consulted with Secretary Elkins. he went to Pennsylvania, presumably to call off the Federal officials who were exerting themselves to prevent Quay from obtaining a majority of the next Legislature pledged to him. Senator Quay thought for a time that the matter had been arranged, but very recent developments have convinced him that President Harrison has not let up on him. Senator Quay had planned for an extended fishing excur-sion, but he now apprehends that he may have to abandon it as he thinks it would be risky to leave the senatorial field for several weeks entirely to the President's machina-tions against him.

THEOUGH MAHONE'S INFLUENCE.

According to Colonel Mayers, late post-master at Stephens City, Frederick county, Mahone is again Virginia boss over postal patronage, Mayers was removed and G. A. Grove appointed, Mayers went to Assistant Postmaster-General Rathbone to-day and charged his removal to Mahone, He said he had been postmaster for twenty-five years, except one term, when Mahone then had him removed. Mayers declared that the Republicans of the place are very indignant and threaten to vote the Democratic ticket if Mahone's man is forced upon them. Though Mayers claims to have been a consistent Republican it's plain Rathbone intends to disregard his protest.

Gaines Passed Tar ugh the Mill. BIDFORD CITY, August 22.- [Special.]-A rery large number of citizens from various portions of the county attended the regular term of the County Court to-day. Nothing requiring prompt action being before the court, it was adjourned to give place for a Democratic mass-meeting to elect delegates to the district congressional nominating convention at Lynchburg on the 26th last sud for a point discussion, which had inst., and for a joint discussion which had been arranged between Hon. John Goode on the part of the national Democracy, and Major Richard L. Gaines, of Charlotte, the champion of the Third party, called. The result of the mass meeting was the appointment of a delegation that will vote for the nomination of Farmer Paul Edmunds as the Democratic candidate to represent this district in the next Congress, after which the hour for the discussion having arrived upon a proclamation at the door the courthouse was soon densely packed, standing room being in demand, Hon. W. W. Berry introduced Hon. John Goode, who led off in a masterly and eloquent enunciation of the doctrines and teachings of the Democratic party. He had not been speaking long before it was evi-dent that he was carrying the crowd with him.

Mr. Thomas Cobb, leader of the Third paty of Ledford, introduced Major Gaines in a speech of some length, in which he attempted on his own behalf to discuss the Third party measures. He had not proceeded far, however, when Hon. W. W. Berry, by a gentle pull at the end of his coattail gained his attention and reminded him that the time had not been divided with him, but with Major Gaines, whereupon he cut short his introduction. The Major begon by saying that he was a Democrat—he was in favor of tariff reform, and paid a high compliyor of tariff reform, and paid a high compli-ment to Mr. Cleveland. He then, in a very rambling way charged the Democratic party with all the evils resulting from the defects of the Government for many years back, and during his entire speech he en-deavored to shield the Republican party from blame.

Mr. Goode, in his rejoinder, said the Major gave evidence that he was on the Shalor gave evidence that he was on the stool of repentence for having wandered from the fold of Democracy, and exhorted him as a poor backslider to return; said that he himself was in favor of receiving him back, inasmuch as he had just expressed himself for tariff reform and was such an admirer of Grover Cleveland. Mr. Goode then asked all those in favor of receiving Major Gaines back in the Democratic party to say sye, and a unanimous vote rang out that was heard for several squares.

He then began an inquiry as to the cause

He then began an inquiry as to the cause of the Major's conduct in leaving the Democratic party, and said: "I wonder if the Major would not have accepted an office at the hands of the Democratic party and re-mained true to his first love?" This was a crushing blow, for it turns out that a letter had been written by Major Gaines about three months ago, before he left the Dem-ocratic party, to Mr. J. Thompson Brown. of this county, making some inquiries as to the next candidate for Congress in this district.

It seems that Mr. Brown's reply did not satisfy the Major's aspirations, and the next thing heard of him he was the champion of the Third party.

He acknowledged to day that if the Third party nominated him for Congress he would account and make the capyage.

As soon as the existence of the malady was established the sufferers, who numbered sixteen, were removed to a separate building. The pestilence, however, continued to extend, and is causing many deaths every day in Moscow.

CARDINAL RUGGIER DISMISSED, Great Excitement in Church Circles on Account of It.

Rome, August 23 .- Great excitement has been caused by the dismissal of Cardinal Ruggier, Frafect of Financial Affairs of the Ruggier, Fralect of Financial Affairs of the Propaganda, and who has been looked upon by many as the probable successor of Pove Leo XIII. It is said the Pope himself ordered fluggier's dismissal, being convinced as a result of inquiry that Huggier and not Monsignor Folchi was the really guity party in connection with the misstatements, to use a mild term, for which Monsignor Foleni was dismissed from the Papel service about a year ago. The dismissal of Foleni was brought about, it is said, by Cardinal olchi was Vice-Chamberlain to the Pope and had control of the Papal funds. It was alleged that in the winter of 1800-'91 Monsignor Folchi, supported by Prince Buoncampagni and Baron Lazzaroni, re-solved, in order to save the Banco Li Roma, in which the Vatican held ten thousand out of twelve thousand shares, besides other out of twelve thousand shares, besides other securities, to establish first in Paris and London, and afterwards in Rome, Berlin and New York, a syndicate of Catholic banks with the object of absorbing the financial societies of Rome that were known to be in a disastrous condition, and to restore them to vitality, while at the same time raising the value of the depreciated securities. Above all they wanted to save the Banco di Roma, intending as they evidently did, entirely to reconstruct it. The Banco di Roma was created with a nominal capital of six million lire ($1,200,000), divided as already stated ($1,200,000), divided as already stated into 12,000 shares. But the real working capital consisted of three million lire ($600,000.) As Monsignor Folchi had taken on account of the Vatican ten thousand shares. The administration of Peter's Perce found itself involved non-million to Pence found itself involved nominally to the extent of five million lire, aithough really to the extent of two million five hun-

Monsignor Folchi had moreover deposited in the bank the sum of three milhog lire. At that time financial circles in Home were interested in supporting the creation of these Catholic banks, and they creation of these Catholic banks, and they were desirons of helping this financial movement in order to put the depreciated securities on a firmer footing. Consequently Monsignor Folchie proposed to the committee of cardinals then a pure consultive body that the Vatican should enter into the combine to the extent of $,000,000 lire. He warmly supported the project, urging that the floman securities of the Vatican and the millions of lire invested in the Banco of Romo could not be saved in any Banco di Romo could not be saved in any other way. Cardinal Ruggier, it was claimed, strongly opposed the proposition and protested against it with such success that the committee soon rallied to his support. However, as the committee was merely con-sultive and had no authority to veto the plan, Monsigner Folchi ignored them and carried out, in conjunction with Lazzaroni and Prince Booneampagni, the financial project which had been submitted and rejected by the committee. Monsignor Folchi commenced by sending a part of the money to Paris, where the first of the proposed banks named Le Credit was founded. But as the Pope had not been informed of this arbitrary speculation and as the committee was only informed of it when it had taken place, Mensigner Folchie was afterward dismissed and the committee hitherto purely consultive became a deliberative body. Such was the story made public at the time of Folchi's dismissal. Later inthe time of Folchi's dismissal. the time of Folchi's dismissal. Later investigations, however, which have been quietly going on appear to have exonerated Folem and implicated Ruggler. There is great excitement in Chusch circles and it is generally believed that a tremendous scan-dal is awaiting disclosure.

HON, JOHN MORLEY RENOMINATED,

Pierce Mahoney to Make an Effort to Unseat Michael Davitt.

London, August 23 .- The Right Hon. John Morley was nominated at Newcastle to-day for re-election, and in opposition to him was nominated Mr. Pandeli Ralli, Liberal Unionist, who made an unsuccessful run at Guteshead in the general election, where he was beaten by the Hon. Walter Henry James, Mr. Ralli is well equipped with funds and has a strong support. It is believed that Mr. Moriev will have no easy task in obtaining re-election, although the opposition to him is not so confident as a few days ago. At Derby Farmer Atkinson was nominated in opposition to Sir William Vernon Harcourt, but there is no doubt of Harcourt's re-election. Most of the other ministers have been re-elected without opposition. Pierce Mahoney, the defeated Parnellite condidate in North Meath, is busily engaged gathering evidence to secure the unseating of Michael Davitt. Mahoney claims that Roman Catholic clergymen acted for Davitt by addresses from the altar during the celebration of mass and by other means, which threatened loss and injury, temporal and spiritual, and in other ways on Mahoney's supporters. him was nominated Mr. Pandeli Ralli,

When asked to state his reasons therefor Mr. Vezey continued: "Before the war my brother, John Vezey, was jointly interested with a man named Vasser in the publication of the Aberdeen (Miss.) Conservative. In 1858 or 1859 a young man of about twenty-five years of age came in one day, and soon acquired Vasser's interest in the paper. He took hold with my brother and things went along smoothly for three or four months. We noticed, however, that the new partner was nervous and apparently disturbed over something however, that the new partner was nervous and apparently disturbed over something that continually occupied his mind. Finally he announced, without any explanation, that he was going to take a trip, and away he went. He was gone two or three months out West, then he came back and remained away weeks. Leaving Aberdeen suddenly he went to Alabama, from which state he came to Abardeen to look after suddenly he went to Alabama, from which state he came to Aberdeen to look after some private interests, as he explained. When he returned to Aberdeen he told me he was tired of the paper and wanted to sell his interest. It was offered to me at a bargain and before night of the day on which he returned we had reached an agreement. The formal transfer and payment was to be made next morning. That night, however, he finally left Aberdeen and nothing more was heard of him. His name was James W. Borden. After he had gone we learned that he had killed his father in Alabama, but the particulars never reached we learned that he had knied his lather in Alabama, but the particulars never reached us, I do not know whether he was tried and acquitted, nor do I know where he went after leaving Aberdeen. The inci-dents narrated have recurred to me since the Borden tragedy, now claiming public at-tention."

The Corriere di Napoli publishes a letter alleged to have been written by Mr. Gladstone to Signor Schilizzi, the editor of the Corriere, in which the writer deplores, as a friend of Italy, har enormous military expenditure and embarrassing alliances, and, after expressing the hope that Italy will abandon her Airican policy, says. "I cannot like triple or double alliances because the ultimate dosign and scope of these alliances are not peaceful. The strength of a nation consists, ultimately, in economy in its forces. I fear that the future of Europe is a very dark one, although, with God help, the present peaceful situation may still last for some time."
